HAVERFORD SATURDAY. Last Home Game of Season with Pennsylvania Collegians.

Trinity's supporters will have their last chance to see the team work out on the home field on Saturday, when the Haverford eleven will come to Hartford. The home team came back last Tuesday, and played in better form than they have since the Bowdoin game, and the Pennsylvania college can always be counted on for hard, clean playing, so the game Saturday should be well worth seeing.

The Haverford team is fast but light. They have been badly defeated this year by Lehigh and others. There is no direct comparative scores to fall back on, but it seems that Trinity should carry off the honors in view of the general record of both teams.

The 'varsity was given a rest Wednesday after the Election Day game, but there was hard scrimmage practice Thursday, and Friday will be devoted to light practice for Saturday's game. Though several men received severe cuts and bruises against N. Y. U., there were no injuries serious enough to keep anyone out of the game Saturday.

1914 Class Meeting.

There was a meeting of the junior class Wednesday noon to discuss plans for the junior promenade. Owing to the early date of Lent, Junior Week cannot be held at the customary time, just after the mid-year examinations, but will probably have to be held after Easter. On the other hand, if the faculty consented to change the date of the examinations, the promenade could take place before Easter. The class arrived at no definite conclusion, but will meet Monday to decide finally.

The North Campus.

The campus grading is fast nearing completion and at present there is only a small force of men at work. The ground from the college fence at the north end of the campus to the walk between the trees has been filled in and made level with the main campus, with a slight and very gradual slope downward toward the President's house. There is still considerable grading to be done beyond the stone walk, particularly back of Dr. Ferguson's garden and it is there that the men are now at work. The walk on the east side of Summit Street, from Vernon Street to the college, is all laid out and lined with turf, as is the completed portion of the north campus. Beyond the walk a considerable portion has been leveled off and the work will, in all probability, be finished soon.

Sophomore Hop.

Chairman Hall of the Sophomore hop committee has called a meeting of that body for tonight. At this time a date will be set for the hop and other arrangements made.

TRINITY DOWNS NEW YORK UNIVERSITY.

BLUE AND GOLD ATTACK CRUMPLES VIOLET LINE. BACKFIELD STARS.
FAVORABLE COMMENT ON TEAM'S PLAY BY NEW YORK PAPERS.

The Trinity eleven came back strong last Tuesday after their slump of ten days previous and defeated New York University by a score of 16 to 0. The fact that Tuesday was a holiday, and that it furnished ideal football weather combined to fill Ohio Field with the largest crowd it has ever contained.

Both teams played good ball, but Trinity at all times had the best of the argument, their goal never being in danger. New York University had a strong line, but could not withstand the plunging of the Trinity backs. The chief weakness in the Blue and Gold line-up was the number of fumbles made, two of them preventing touchdowns.

Hudson did the most brilliant work of the game, plowing through the line for long gains, and Collett and Lawler were not far behind in ground gaining and interference. The line men opened up good holes for the rushes in every case, and made possible the long gains of the backs. Sage got off his punts in first-class style. On the defensive, the secondary defense was a stone wall against New York's attacks. "Jim" Moore at defensive full showed the same form as in the Amherst game, correctly judging the plays, and breaking them up, though he had no opportunity for brilliant work.

The ends and tackles did star work for New York and it was their excellent defensive playing that prevented Trinity from rolling up a large score. Wheeler and Dutcher at the wings were especially good on getting down the field and Vesley and Wiener were the ones who usually were at the bottom of the heap when Hudson failed to gain. The center of the line seemed to be the only vulnerable spot in the New York first defense. Behind the line Huntley and Smith were the star men, and what advances New York did make were due to one of these plucky players. Huntley, the quarterback, managed to slip through on several quarter-back line bucks. His punting was of a high order and materially aided in keeping the visitors away from the goal.

Trinity received the kick-off and inside of three minutes worked the ball to within striking distance of their opponents' line, but a drop-kick by Sage was blocked by Vesley and recovered by N. Y. U. After two unsuccessful plunges at the Trinity line, Huntley attempted a kick which was blocked by John Moore. The ball rolled over the New York goal line but Huntley fell on it for a touchback. N. Y. U.'s kick when the ball was put in play on the 25-yard line was again blocked by Trinity but as before, N. Y. U. recovered. The New York team then tried a line plunge but Miller fumbled and Collett recovered the ball for Trinity. A double pass, Hudson to Collett, fooled the Violet ends and the Trinity captain tore around left end for a touchdown. Kinney kicked goal. Two attempts at a forward pass on Trinity's part failed, and the quarter ended without further scoring.

At the beginning of the second period New York recovered the ball on a fumble by Trinity, but lost it soon afterward when Dutcher fumbled a long forward pass, giving Trinity the ball on N. Y. U.'s 45-yard line. On the first play Hudson smashed through the line for twenty yards, and the ball was rapidly worked down to New York's 5-yard line. Here the Violet team stiffened up, and the Trinity backs failed to gain both through the line and around the end. Sage then ran off a fake play and carried the ball himself through tackle and across the line. Kinney kicked a difficult goal. Neither side had the advantage during the remainder of the half, the ball seesawing back and forth, until the period ended with the ball in Trinity's possession on New York's 30-yard line.

At the opening of the third period New York came back with a rush and made three first downs by straight line plunging. Then Huntley was obliged to kick, punting to Trinity's 45-yard line. It came near being a costly punt for New York University for Collett, by magnificent dodging, carried the ball back to New York's 15-yard mark. Here the defense took a stand and held for downs. On the first play, however, there was a confusion of signals and the center's pass rolled over the goal line, where Brown fell on it for New York for a safety. This ended the scoring, and at no time during the remainder of the game was either goal line in danger.

L'HEUREUX ELECTED TO HOUSE.

Trinity Undergraduate in State Legislature.

Alfred J. L'Heureux, '13, was elected to the State House of Representatives, from the Town of Griswold, on the democratic ticket, last Tuesday. L'Heureux received a total of 369 votes, W. P. Johnstone, the republican candidate, received 140 votes, while Simon Brewster, Sr., the progressive nominee, received 108. This gave L'Heureux a plurality of 229 votes over his nearest opponent and a majority of 121 over the combined vote of both his rivals.

L'Heureux is the first Trinity undergraduate ever elected to a state office while still pursuing his college course. His case is also probably unique in the history of the country.

Newspaper Comment.

Most of the sporting experts present at Tuesday's game were very favorably impressed by the work of the Trinity team. Some extracts from the comment of the writers is given below:

(New York Sun.)

The New York University struck an unexpected snag yesterday afternoon and the result was that Trinity trounced the local team to the tune of 16 to 0. Hudson, the Trinity fullback, was the mainstay of the visiting team and furnished numerous thrills by his powerful line plunges. He tore great gaping holes in the New York line that the secondary defense could not plug. Hudson was easily the star of the game, and to him is due the credit for the victory. The New York men fought like fiends to turn the tide, but could not withstand the battering of the Trinity backs.

The Trinity line was outweighed ten pounds to a man by the local line, but what they lacked in weight the back field supplied. Lawlor and Collett, the halfbacks, formed great interference for Hudson, and easily plowed through the backfield of the New York team when they had once got by the rush line. Time after time Hudson dragged three tacklers for yards before he could be stopped. On the offensive the local backs were unable to get beyond the secondary defense. They started each time with speed and easily got by the line, but the moment they struck the Trinity secondary defense, they crumpled like mud against a stone wall. It was heartrending to see Baldie and Braun in the second half start with a snap and dash through a hole in the line as big as a house that looked like a clean gain and then see them borne back to the scrimmage line and sometimes thrown for a loss by Hudson, Lawlor or Collett.

The forward pass was peculiarly absent from the offensive tactics of both teams, only three being even tried by each, and all but one being unsuccessful. One from Huntley to Sears was good for ten yards in the last quarter.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

There has been considerable discussion among the juniors about plans for Senior Week. Owing to the fact that Lent comes so early next year, it is impossible to have the promenade and the rest of the festivities at the usual time, and several men have suggested some date shortly after Easter. There are only two solutions to the problem; one is that just mentioned, and the other—the one which seems to us by far the best—we outline below.

By moving the examinations back one week, we could have the promenade before Lent. This plan is, of course, dependent entirely on the kindness of the faculty. The date of the mid-year examinations can be changed only by their vote. We can think of no reason, however, why there should be any objection to this change. Ash Wednesday comes on the 5th of February. According to the present arrangement, examinations will begin on January 27th and last until February 6th, so that the promenade could not be held until the 10th. By beginning examinations on the 20th, Senior Week could commence on Thursday the 30th and end Monday, the 3rd. The argument has been brought forward that this date is too close to the Christmas holidays and will not afford sufficient time for preparation for the examinations. As a matter of fact, vacation closes January 3rd, giving us seventeen days for review work. Furthermore, it is open to doubt, if any student, no matter how ardent, begins hard work more than a week before mid-year's. The juniors meet Monday to vote on the matter. We hope that they will vote wisely, and hope too that if they do, the faculty will make a favorable decision.

Collett Runs Like Hare.

(Right Wing.)

I want to say a word about this good little back, Collett. He is built close to the ground and runs like a hare, with all a hare's sudden twistings and doublings, and he keeps everlastingly going ahead. Yesterday he snatched kicks from right under the noses of the New York ends, who were down the field on top of him, and with a sudden twist to right or left was away up the field at high speed. He was aided to some extent by good interference, but his quick starting and certainty in getting away were all his own. He is one of the best of the smaller men I have seen this season and would be valuable on almost any team. His work was to some extent overshadowed by Hudson, whom so many have gone to the game to see, but it was there all the time, none the less.

More Comment.

(New York Times.)

The New York eleven was outclassed. The line which heretofore has held against all attacks crumpled before the powerful driving of the Trinity backs. and seemed dazzled by the speed of the opposing team. The Violet back field, on the other hand, which in previous games has played a slow, inconsistent game, braced, and on both offense and defense showed high-class form.

The three Trinity backs were a marvel on the offense. They worked together splendidly, forming fine interference, and picking their holes cleverly. Hudson, especially, ripped through the New York line to the secondary defense at every try, and it generally took three men to down him. Collett, on long end runs, gained a lot of ground for the Hartford team, and scored the second touchdown on a long run around left end, aided by the beautiful interference of Lawlor and Hudson.

(New York Herald.)

In Sage they had a very fine kicker, who helped his team a whole lot toward victory. Hudson, the fullback, was a player of high degree, who looked good enough to shine in almost any combination in the East.

(New York Tribune.)

Trinity didn't punt more than half a dozen times, all told. Sage, who did the kicking, got off some good drives despite the handicap of poor passing by Kinney. One of Sage's punts carried more than sixty yards, and his average distance was well over fifty yards.

Underclass Football.

The annual underclass football game will take place on Trinity field next Monday afternoon. Both freshmen and sophomores have been practicing for the last ten days, and the game is not likely to prove the farce which it has been in years past.

What the Sun Says of Hudson.

New York football enthusiasts had a chance Tuesday to see in action Hudson, the noted Trinity fullback, who last year was placed in several all-Eastern elevens. The Trinity man was the best ground gainer against New York University in the game at Ohio Field and his work at carrying the ball caused several experts to exclaim: "What a corker that fellow would be on one of the big teams!"

In one respect Hudson's play this fall has been below par. He has been doing a lot of fumbling. But he is as powerful a plunger as ever. He is of symmetrical build, splendidly proportioned and slides through his openings very cleanly. That is one of the telling points of his work—the momentum and precisiod with which he takes an opening. Then again he is about as hard a man to pull down as there is in the game, using his shoulders and strong legs to help him plough along and often tear away from a tackler.
